'Singing in secret'. Music from Recusant Renaissance England

The Marian Consort, directed by Rory McCleery

Taking its name from the Blessed Virgin Mary, The Marian Consort was formed at Oxford University in 2007 to explore the repertory of the Renaissance and Baroque, combining academic insight with the highest levels of performance practice. Since then, this 'astounding' (The Herald) ensemble has given concerts throughout the UK and Europe. The programme draws on the rich corpus of music written by William Byrd, England's greatest Renaissance composer.
